Imbadu Bench

R 18 000.00

Imbadu is a term given to an African concept when a community of people come together to discuss or solve a common problem within their immediate community. This concept inspired the Imbadu bench where different elements are used to uniquely solve a problem of "seating".

Wooden Potjie side table

R 25 000.00

© umongo_za

The design of the potjie, a rural element that is common in many homes,reinterpreted. An element of cultural value used in traditional ceremonies lifted into a bespoke design piece by reinterpreting materials

UMONGO

R8000.00

Umqhele chair

Umqhele is a xhosa word for crown . Umqhele Dining chair is an unique chair born out of the idea of collaboration and spotting opportunity . The collaboration is by Umongo and Afrigarde. Taking advantage of the unique felting technique that Afrigarde uses in their jewelry making , up scaling it to use in our product creating an exquisite piece of design that will definitely a conversation piece in your home.

UMONGO

R 8500.00

Intombi pendant light , is inspired by the youthfulness , wisdom and beauty of the woman. Having a curvy ephemeral steel frame that mimics the female body , solid timber top made out of African black wood as a symbolism of her wisdom and colourful Ndebele beadwork to mimic her youthful and whimsy.

Intombi Pendant lights

The Knobkerrie Light

Concept

The Knobkerrie Pendant Light

In celebrating the Knobkrrie (ball headed cane) as a symbol of power and protection amongst african people. The knobkerrie was one of the first weapons africans fashioned to protect themselves and it has therefore gone to be used in various ways for celebrations at initiations , hunting etc, As this object has been so long in our midst I have chosen to give it a new purpose which still serves equal importance. The one of light , light is what protects us from the dark where all bad seem to happen , it shows us the way to safety. So coupling the nature of protection of the knobkerrie and that of light seemed to be a logical reasoning to create a unique objects that animates the home.

Keti Dining Chair

Concept

Keti Dining Chair

Inspired the slingshot the "keti dining chair" represents the primitive relationship that man has with hunting his food. A sort of reminder of us be always aware of what we eat and where it comes from.